Pride and Prejudice (Contd) "But if you have got them to-day," said Elizabeth, "my mother's purpose will be answered." She did at last extort from her father an acknowledgment that the horses were engaged: Jane was therefore obliged to go on horseback, and her mother attended her to the door with many cheerful prognostics of a bad day.

The would-be disciple must deny himself; that is, he must disregard his own interests, and die to the willful, selfish, sinful parts of himself... he must let go of his plans and what he wants to do. The issue of dying to self is a process of stripping away layers of sin encrusted with self- ishness – it is an integral part of the process of sanctification.

If we must die–let it not be like hogs Hunted and penned in an inglorious spot, While round us bark the mad and hungry dogs, Making their mock at our accursed lot. If we must die–oh, let us nobly die, So that our precious blood may not be shed In vain; then even the monsters we defy Shall be constrained to honor us though dead! Oh, Kinsmen!
